

*Silently, quietly without questions or complains She bore her sadness and illness
And fought with all her might
For every new day and night
But at last ... weary after the brave but uneven fight Slowly as a shadow stole over her face
As she slipped away from our midst
At last released from her suffering*

Deeply saddened, but very grateful for everything she did and meant for us through the years, we inform you of the passing, despite the bad omen still unexpected, of my steadfast better half and devoted help and stay during 51 years of marriage.
A supportive mother and best friend, who was always there for everyone, a mother-in-law, who made everyone feel welcome.
A true super English Granny, with lots of stories to tell and a kind, loyal sister, with whom I shared precious memories of a happy youth.
